

Anna Murphy

Leicester / UK

Current position

Anna Murphy works at Glenfield Hospital, University Hospitals of Leicester NHS Trust. Anna has worked within the field of respiratory medicine for over 20 years. She is also honorary visiting professor at DeMontfort University. She also a member of the NHSE clinical reference group for respiratory medicine and involved with many respiratory organisations and charities.

Clinical

Anna has experience working as part of the multidisciplinary team, reviewing patients with various respiratory diseases in dedicated outpatient clinics as well as on the ward and within GP clinics. With respect to ILD, Anna is responsible for the prescribing and monitoring of antifibrotics and immunosuppressant's.

Teaching

Formal teaching is provided as part of the non-medical prescribing course at Derby University and ad-hoc teaching at DeMontfort University. Previously Anna lectured for Warwick medical school.

Professional Service

Anna is treasurer for the ILD-INN UK. She is also a member of the BTS, ERS, committee member of the UKCPA, PCPA, RPS spokesperson and on the scientific panel for the anaphylaxis society and Asthma UK. She is author of Asthma-in-Focus, and numerous peer-reviewed publications.